DR. MARY WALKER now declaresshe will never marry. Young men, now you can come out of the woods.

THE jury of inquest upon the rotten Republican carcass in the Treasury Department is still holding its nese and taking testimony.

THE Republican journals very frequently refer to the President's appointments as "straws." Fooling with straws has been one of the things that has helped to break the Republican party all up.

WE like to have what pleases as gladden others and the rip-toarious enthusiasm of the New York Sun over the administration of President Cleveland up to date is as gratifying as it of taking-when it is out of power. was unexpected.

THE President has appointed Gen. Jos. E. Johnston Commissioner of Railroads. The appointment of the old hero will probably recall the alarm of "the Confederacy in the saddle." For all that, it is a good appointment and the President has done a fearless and an

WHO was it said that this Administration would give the young-blood of the country a supreme chance for distinction? So far, the young fellows are told to be patient, to cool their heels in the rear, while the ancient leaders snap up the good things, and, when secured, 'few will die and none resign."

The Augusta Chronicle says the President seems to be selecting men who were left out of office when Buchanan retired. Two generations is a long ways to go to pay up the back debts of Democracy.

An Illinois woman, who says she is a Democrat, wants the post office now administered by her Republican husband. The husband vouches for her. In one case, in Nebraska, a father and son are applicants for the same office, and their applications are filed not only with indorsements of themselves, but the dissertation on the unfitness of each

We are glad to see a New England Democrat like Mr. Philps rewarded. Vermon't may take a new departure and cease to be the "Republican star that never sets."

LET us have a rest on Mr. Cleveland and his mode of living. What is it if -he does eat breakfast at 8 o'clock and commence work at nine in the morning. Is he any better to do it than millions of other honest men who don't get oneoff his coat when he writes and fumbles over his papers, he has a perfect right to do so. We are assured he feels more comfortable judging from our own experience. From the way in which some correspondents speak about the President's mode and style of living, they would make you believe that it would be undignified and a disgrace to his able between them, but, we are glad to cont off. If the President wishes to work in his shirt sleeves or stick his between them is diminishing. Should pants in his boots legs, he has a perfect | they come to blows, however, it would right to do so. MAHONE's party in Virginia, according to a well-informed gentleman who has trained with it, is hopelessly broken, and with its disruption has departed the hope of contending against the regular Democratic organizations. Mahone has lost the support not only of Gov. Cameron and other Readjusters, but many of the stongest Republicans who helped him to win his victories have descrited nim. Among these men the expectation is general that the adoughly root out Federal office-holders England if war is declared. wherever they are known to have been

ery Observer: "The Orangeburg Times and Demo-crat says Postmaster Boone resigned to prevent being 'kicked out.' There no evidence to that effect. Mr. Boone, who ought to know, says he has private business of his own that will pay him better than the postoffice. It a lady's grave in the Waxahaw Church by no means certain, or even probable, that he would have been kicked out.' By the way, 'kicked out' is a very ugly expression. 'Removed'

sounds much better."

The fact that we said Mr. Boone resigned to prevent being kicked out of the Newberry postoffice has stirred the righteous indignation of a number of our Newberry friends, all of whom proclaim Mr. Boone to be a good man. That may be. But we think even our Newberry friends will admit that he has been keeping most disreputable company in acting with the Republican party of South Carolina. We do not know Mr. Boone personally and our opinion of him was formed altogether from this fact. We are extremely oblidged to the Observer for its kind suggestion in reference to substituting the word "repression, but then it is a very expressive expression, and in our opinion just the word to be applied to the Radical leeches that have been holding the Federal positions in South Carolina

A Good Thing.
The Boston Post thinks that if for no other reason the change of administration is a good thing for the country because it has shown what high moral ground the Republican party is capable For instance, our esteemed contemporary, the Springfield Union, says: "The country is of vastly more consequence than Democratic office seekers, and if the President can only succeed in convincing the cheap fellows that want office that he cannot be bored or bulldozed into making unworthy appointments, he wil do a good thing. If that is what he is aiming at, he can count on cordial sympathy and support from Republicans." But what bothers us is the lively recollection that when Republican Presidents occupied the White House they counted on and received cordial sympathy and support from Republicans when the "cheap fellows" asked for and obtained just about what they wanted. We are glad that the Republican party has had its conscience quickened. Even the vampires in South Carolina who hold the Federal positions in this State have found all of a sudden that they are earnest champions of civil service referm, and pretend to think that its benefits should be extended to them. Well, we think so THE plea urged by begging, barnacle | too, but the first thing to be done un-Republicans is that if they are turned | der it is to kick them out of the positions they hold, and put better men in their places.
